

October 16th 2021 - Festival of the Future event hosted by Bristol ideas.

Bristol's community organisations and artists are pioneering bold and equitable community-led climate action in Bristol. They share insights on how to engage diverse communities about the urgency of the climate emergency at a local level.

Throughout 2021, six community organisations representing Bristol's most diverse and disadvantaged communities, have set about co-producing their own community climate action plans as part of the lottery-funded Bristol Community Climate Action project. The plans developed will identify key priorities to help deliver Bristol's 2030 net zero ambition, whilst simultaneously improving the quality of life for local residents in the civic recovery from the Covid pandemic. This session will include a series of short presentations from six of Bristol's leading community organisations, followed by an audience Q&A and interspersed with invitations from community artists to sample climate craftivism and watch co-produced climate-themed memes.
